

Charity receives £3,000 as sales of crime thriller II PY top 3,000 copies

Haworth author Edward Evans recently celebrated the sale of the 3,000th copy of II PY, his action-packed crime thriller featuring a vintage Rolls Royce Sedanca de Ville. This was also great news for The Bradford Day Shelter, who receive £1 for every book sold.

The Bradford Day Shelter, located on Edmund Street, Bradford, give vital help and support to homeless people. A registered charity, founded in 1974, they provide hot meals, washing facilities and clean clothes for up to 100 people each day.

In addition to this care, advice on housing and benefits is available to homeless people, rough sleepers and those in poor accommodation at The Bradford Day Shelter.

Edward Evans with Rose Brocklesby at The Bradford Day Shelter

A spokesman for The Bradford Day Shelter said: "We are very grateful to Edward Evans for supporting The Bradford Day Shelter. In the current economic climate the pressures on the Day Shelter – and the number of people who need to access the service – is ever increasing. This donation makes a real difference."

Edward Evans is also the author of "Like a Fish out of Water", where £1 from the sale of every book is donated to the RAF Benevolent Fund, and "For the Right Reasons", where £1 from the sale of every book is donated to Help the Heroes charity.

The success of Edward's books has recently been recognised by book outlets across Europe. They are for sale in the Netherlands and as far away as the south of France.

Bradford Day Shelter is managed by Horton Housing Association. For further information please contact Mark Taylor on 07944 844398.